

ENGAGE ADAPTATION AWARD FOLLOW-UP SURVEY

*Lindsey Schmidt
Evaluation and
Assessment Specialist
UW-Madison*

Podcasting and Podcasting Plus

THREE Years Later December 2010
<http://engage.doit.wisc.edu/podcasting>

In November 2010, a brief 3-year follow-up survey was sent to 92 people who were involved in the Podcasting or Podcasting Plus Engage Adaptation Awards. The purpose of the survey was to find out if the past awardees were still using podcasting in their teaching and if they were sharing their experiences with campus and beyond. Fifty-one people responded, for a response rate of 55%. The results are summarized below.

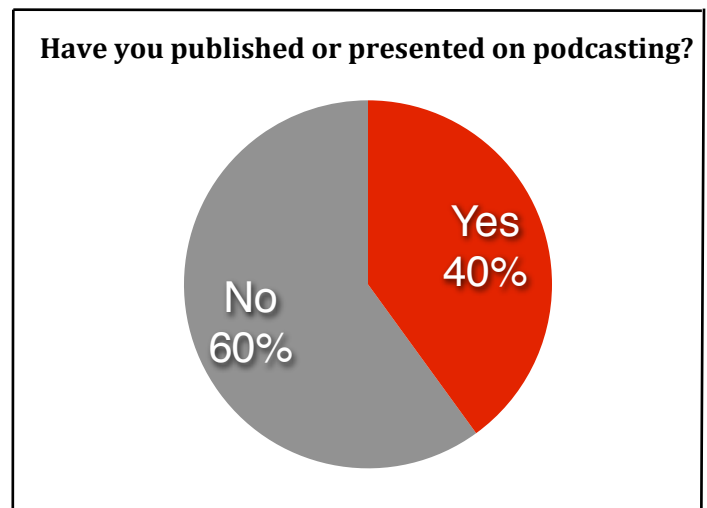

Why do continue to use podcasting? (N=35)

Can cover more content/ provide supplemental materials
Convenient way to convey certain types of information
Students like it
Provides a way for students to prepare for/review lectures
Enhances student learning
Provides extra practice and reinforcement

Why did you stop using podcasting? (13)

Podcasts no longer fit my needs
Lack of support or resources
No longer teaching
Students were not using them
Too time-consuming to create

Where have you published/presented? (N=20)

- UW-Madison Conferences, Symposia, and Brownbags (16)
- A wide range of US and international schools by invitation
- Academy of Management Annual Conference
- American Folklore Society Annual Meeting
- American Society of Animal Science
- Fundacion Ortega y Gasset
- International Teachers Program
- Kansas State University
- NCERA57-Swine Reproduction
- Pacific Asia CIBER Conference
- SLOAN C/Merlot Conference
- Society for the Advancement of Scandinavian Studies